

Has any one taken note of the way in which some of the old standbys in the realm of bachelordom have been converted in the past year? After all it may have been a wise provision of the powers that were responsible, this making a leap year once in four years. See the array of hitherto invincibles that have been induced to enter where others feared, both of the natural and the artificial. There have been two furniture dealers, an artist of international repute, a university professor, a front row one of the Orpheus club, a handsome young mining engineer, a singer, and now, to finish off with a great railroad man. No one should be discouraged, however, as there still are left a number of choice chances. Among them may be enumerated some lawyers, some few doctors, a druggist or two and a few holy men of church tendencies, all these in the bachelor class, besides a large and varied assortment of widowers, both of the natural and the hybrid variety. Several of these last are said to be weighing matters carefully, and indeed, a number of the bachelors are already beginning to get the anxious look that sometimes comes as Hymen nears a man as if to steal away his breath.

A number of girls are forming domestic science classes for study during the winter season, and some have gone so far as to suggest that the men advertise their eligibility by passing an examination in the gentle art of the chafing dish before expecting an answer to the question which will doubtless be asked many times during the season just opening. A great many of the dwellers in flats have had to resort to the chafing dish, and shouldn't a man make himself proficient in its use?

Miss Edith Sutherland, who left yesterday for Washington to spend the winter, has been one of the most popular visitors within the city for the past summer. With beauty and wit and a rare charm of manner quite in keeping with her looks, she has won a host of friends among the older people, as well as made warmer those of the young set who knew her well before. She has been popular in Washington society and will doubtless spend a gay winter.

The woman's golf handicap tournament is progressing at a slow rate, the players not yet having reached the semi-finals in the October play. The friends of the fair ones were surprised a few days ago, to read of the "parings," instead of the pairings, in the game. If those are the pairings there must be some mighty fine fruit.

The Commercial club is to give one of its real old-fashioned, delightful musicales again, the first being set for about the 23rd of the month. And, glory be, the ladies are not only to be there, but are to be heard also.

Ladies Literary Club.
No more satisfying program has ever been given to the members of the Ladies' Literary club than was presented Friday with the topic "Dante's Land," as given to the club in the course of an hour's paper by Mrs. William Igleheart. No report would be possible that might do justice to the subject, for it was presented in the personal vein, recounting a visit to Florence and Verona and Ravenna, and then this personal narrative was illumined and brightened all along with passages from the writings of the great Italian master. Following this Mrs. Igleheart dwelt more especially on the land of Dante in a literary sense, and still later in a spiritual sense. And as a magnificent close to the paper Mrs. C. A. Plummer sang, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

Only one fault could be found with the arrangement, and that was that preceding and following the paper the most excellent reports of the biennial meeting were thrown into the shade by the splendid topic. And these reports were most excellent and helpful, given by the president, Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. Byron Cummings, the head of the state federation, Mrs. Plummer and Mrs. George R. Hancock. Each one presented a different side of the great convention, and all were so good that they might well have filled an afternoon with their uplifting thought and literature. And added to these was a most cordial and gratifying verbal report from Mrs. Royle, the club mother, of the fine things Mrs. Sarah S. Platt Decker had said of the Utah delegates when she returned to her home in Denver, and which were written later to Mrs. Royle.

The afternoon opened with a finely rendered piano solo by Miss Mae Hawley, the winner of the first prize in the Elstvedoff. At the close of the afternoon Mrs. A. J. Gorham and Miss Ethel Paul were elected delegate and alternate to attend the annual convention in Mantle. Reports of the officers and of the board of directors were given.

Daughters of Revolution.
The Spirit of Liberty chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held one of the most interesting meetings it has ever enjoyed on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Grant Hampton. The program was in the hands of Mrs. Mary M. F. Allen, who, with the help of Mrs. C. S. Kinney, had prepared an afternoon of relics. The time was devoted entirely to the viewing and describing of relics in the possession of the individual members handed down from revolutionary days. The hostess herself, and her mother, possess a large collection of such interesting things, and to these were added the priceless treasures and heirlooms of other members. Many romantic stories were told in regard to these treasures, for among them were a ring and sleeve buttons, a watch and spectacles worn during the revolution by ancestors of the members of the local chapter. As a close of the afternoon's program Mrs. William M. McCrea sang three songs, with Mrs. A. S. Peters as accompanist.

The first regular meeting of the Woman's Athenaeum of Park City since the adjournment last June for the summer months was held Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. F. W. Hayt.

The first meeting of the year is known as president's day, at which time a few guests are invited. The minutes being read and accepted, and a delegate elected to attend the Woman's Federation to be held in Mantle.

Mrs. E. P. LeCompte was chosen to represent the Park City club, with Miss Kate Laurence alternate.

During the afternoon Mrs. LeCompte, the retiring president, was presented with some beautiful flowers by the members, it being the custom of the club to make this presentation each year. The lady thanked them for remembering her so kindly, and had nothing but good wishes for the success of the Woman's Athenaeum of Park City.

The next meeting will be held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Williams, at which time the first real work for the coming season will begin.

After the meeting refreshments were served to all by the hostess, Mrs. Hayt.

The Woman's club will hold the opening meeting of the year on Tuesday next with Mrs. C. S. Kinney at 820 East Fourth South street, instead of with Miss Rose. Mrs. Byron Cummings, the president of the state federation, will speak on the Boston biennial and will also tell of the plans of the state federation meeting in Mantle. Delegates to this meeting will be elected at the meeting.

Tuesday afternoon the Wasatch Literary club held its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. E. Hauxhurst. The meeting was largely attended and of an enthusiastic nature. The program follows: Annual address by the president, Mrs. Hauxhurst; Mrs. Byron Cummings and Mrs. Fred Blackford gave reports from the biennial; the quartette which furnished the music was composed of Mesdames Hays, McNiece, Thorne and Dunshee.

The Daughters of the Pioneers will hold a meeting on Wednesday at the B. Y. memorial hall, in room 21, H. C. Whitney will give a talk on "Pioneer
